Public Lecture by Oltesh

Tobias Oltesh is an accomplished man having worked in various organisations and in the East African community in the bank of Tanzania. He currently works with the African Development Bank as the Principal Procurement Officer at African Development Bank.

Mr. Oltesh graced DeKUT on 29th October, 2015 to deliver a public lecture to students on the skills necessary to make it in the job market once they graduate. He addressed issues like what graduates should do to prepare themselves to compete in the labour market; How to remain competitive and excel in getting promoted; And how to make a difference and contribute to the growing Economy of Kenya. The lecture was very interactive and students were very eager to contribute to the discussion once the questions and answers session was commissioned.

Gown Lectures

The 3rd and 4th Gown public Lectures were held. Students were inspired by the speakers on areas of self discipline, motivation and overcoming obstacles. The 3rd Gown Public Lecture was delivered by Dr. Sang while the 4th Gown Public lecture was delivered by Dr. David Kiragu, PhD Associate Dean and Lecturer School of Business Management and Economics on Connecting with the Employer in the Corporate World and sustaining it.

Student's Award Ceremony for 2014/2015 academic year was held on 27th October 2015. A total of 284 individual students and 16 groups were awarded for both academic and co-curricular activities for their exemplary performance. The ratio of male to female in academics awardees was 177:83. The students for individual efforts were awarded with certificates and monetary gifts while the groups were awarded the certificates. The next academic awards for the academic year 2015/2016 will be held in May 2016.

Standard chartered Marathon

DeKUT staff participated in this year's Standard Chartered Nairobi Marathon. This was the 13th Edition of the marathon. The marathon is held yearly in order to raise funds to aid the needy in the community. It is the flagship project of the, 'seeing is believing' campaign which has seen aid giving to the visually challenged children of Kenya. The marathon attracts thousands of participants from within and outside Kenya.

According to the bank the year 2014 we saw tremendous steps in restoration of children's sight: "51,890 children underwent eye screening; 1,914 children underwent surgery and had their sight restored; 6,862 children were treated for allergic conjunctivitis; 1,345 children were treated for refractive error; 754 teachers of sighted children were trained on vision screening; general eye health examination; provision of eye health education in their schools; and making appropriate referrals; 354 community health extension workers and 244 community health workers were trained on conducting eye health education, vision screening and eye health examination." DeKUT staff members, through the fitness club, have participated in this marathon for years and are proud to be part of such a noble cause.

Students Clear Conservancy Bush in Aid of a Fellow Student

A group 124 students from the School of Business, Management and Economics (SoBME) volunteered to do casual work to help raise fees for a fellow student. The student, pressed by fee arrears had already dropped out of school by the time this initiative took off. The Bachelor of Commerce students, all in their final year, took time off their studies and took pangas to clear bush within the university's conservancy. Led by their representative Lawrence King'ori, the students were set out to clear the three hectares portion, to help raise Sh100,000, which was the outstanding fees arrears for their colleague. This was a noble project and in line with the spirit of brotherhood inspired by the Climb to Educate initiative. So outstanding was this project that it attracted the attention of journalists and appeared in the Standard Newspaper.
